Then was shown the wonderful power of Dr. King's New Discovery. "After three weeks use," writes Mr. Blevens, "he was as well as ever. Farmers are getting along very nicely with their work in this section, but too many persist in buying or borrowing field seed from neighbors instead of ordering fresh seed of a reliable seed man, and the result is run down, injured seed and hard work for nothing. In buying seed it pays to get the best. It is a good cook that can always grade the salt exactly to the queen's taste, and it is a good farmer that knows what and how to feed his fields.

T. K. Tutt returned to his home at Gosneyville on the eighth inst. from Sardis, Miss., where he has been working in the timber business for quite a while. He was manager over a large crew of men and says he can place a few more and send them there so if anyone here is seeking employment of this kind they can see Mr. Tutt at his residence. He says he has a pleasant and paying position and enjoyed his stay splendidly, but also says there is not a spot on earth so dear to him as old Kentucky.

DIRT ROADS ADVOCATE.

Farmer Shows They May Be Had at Small Cost.

HUNDRED DOLLARS PER MILE.

P. J. Jewett, a farmer near Butler, Mo., has written to the Kansas City Star as follows on the subject of good roads:

I have been reading with interest the various letters and editorials in the Star on the subject of good roads, as I read with interest anything on this subject anywhere. Although a farmer, I am also a "good roads" man.

I am pleased to see the interest shown, and, while I don't want to "knock," I am afraid the cause is being injured by its friends who write in that they seem to think no road a good one unless it is made of rock at a cost of $3,000 to $5,000 a mile.

I will state as briefly as I can how the subject looks to me, and I believe I will voice the opinion of 75 per cent of the farmers in the corn belt.

It is evident that if roads are made in the country the people who live there (farmers) must either do the work or pay for it. Individually I have little interest in roads other than those in my immediate neighborhood and those leading to my market. In twenty-five years I have not driven so far that I could not get back the same day. If I have to make a trip of any considerable distance I take a train. I am not yet able to keep a motor car for pleasure and am not willing to make roads for those who are.

I live in an average township in western Missouri that has sixty miles of road. Our assessed valuation is $350,000. To make rock roads at the lowest estimated price per mile, $3,000, would cost $180,000, or more than half the value of all the property in the township. To make one mile at $3,000 would require a tax of 83 cents on $100. A rock road is never the best road. If it was we would not avoid it, as we always do, when the ground is dry and speed rings would be made that way. It is not permanent, and the cost of maintaining six miles would be more than we now put on sixty. I know that the idea is to improve the most important roads first and the other later, but the one who lives a mile from the improved road can take no more than he can pull over the unimproved one.

I note the argument that I can take larger loads, make better time, get better prices, all of which I admit, but my present income would have to be increased very much to enable me to stand this cost. I also note that good roads will enable me to sell my farm for a greater price. Suppose I don't want to sell. We are not all speculators. Would an acre produce more if its price was $100 than it would if it was $50? Without doubt I would pay twice as much tax. If I want to sell it's different, though much like life insurance—a game you have to die to beat.

Do you see why farmers promptly vote down anything along this line? In Missouri the farmers killed the ten cent state road tax, that was really in their favor, because they thought it was to build a state road, in which they had no interest.

Don't think we are "mossbacks." We want good roads and appreciate their value, but if we must make them we insist that they be of a kind that we can afford and that will suit our needs.

Why not try good dirt roads? With the exception of a few miles, say 10 per cent, near the towns, where travel converges, a good dirt road properly maintained would be the very best possible eight months in the year, a good one ten and passably the other two. I believe $100 a mile would make good dirt roads in our township, and with $200 more we could grade down the hills, grade up the low places, tile out the wet ones, properly grade and ditch them and put in concrete culverts where bridges were not required—in fact, make a modern rock road without the rock.

As to maintenance, a mile of thirty foot road can be dragged once for 50 cents. An average of ten times will be ample. But let's say fifteen, and we have a cost of $7.50. A grader should be run over the road once a year to open ditches and maintain proper shape. Two horse graders are now made that will do this work at $2.50 a mile; plowing furrow in ditches, 50 cents. To sum up, then, we have this result:

COST PER MILE.
Construction.....	$300 00
MAINTENANCE ONE YEAR.
Dragging.....	$7 50
Grading.....	2 50
Plowing.....	50—10 50

A permanently good road, getting better every year, as all dragged roads do.

Looks good, doesn't it? Best of all is it's true. I have kept a mile of average road for the last six years in such condition that an ordinary good team could draw a ton over it any day in that time, and the whole cost of construction and maintenance for the whole time is less than $100. Give us road laws based on common sense construction that will provide for constant maintenance and we can have good roads. Missouri has a very good one in the "special road district" act that will apply if we can get rid of the idea that the only good road is a rock road.

Stomach Distress.

Every family here ought to keep some Diapiesin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of Indigestion or Stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour stomach five minutes after taking.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin and take one triangle after supper tonight. There will be no sour fumes, no belching, no undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapiesin is a certain cure for all stomach misery, because it will take hold of your food and digest it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Actual, prompt relief for all your stomach misery is at your Pharmacist, waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure a case of Dyspepsia or Indigestion

For Sale—Two of the Pieratt cottages for less than the lumber and lot can be bought. One acre in each lot; five rooms in each house. Apply at this office.

Commercial Convention.

People in this county are interested in the commercial convention which has been called to meet in Louisville April 23. The meeting will be held in the Red Room of the Seelbach Hotel, and will last that afternoon, being followed in the evening by a banquet tendered by the Commercial Club. The delegates will be given the freedom of the Southern Electrical and Industrial Exposition, which will be open at that time.

A call sent out by the Commercial Club, of Louisville, which is arranging the affair, has gone to every commercial body and county judge in the State. It is asked that delegates be appointed by them to represent each county. The convention is expected to have representation from at least 100 counties in Kentucky, so that it will be the most inclusive gathering of the sort since the last State Development Convention.

The object of the meeting is to make the men of all sections of Kentucky known to those of other sections. The McCracken county man and the Carroll county man are to get together, and the Bullitt county man and the Bell county man are to exchange ideas. The delegates will bring information of the resources and needs of their respective counties, and this information will be filed. It will be the first time that a systematic effort has been made to compile such information.

Florida Flowers.

Tampa, Fla., March 29.

Spencer Cooper, Hazel Green, Ky.
Dear Sir and Friend—Uncle Green Trimble, his son Robert and myself left Mt. Sterling, on the 18 inst. for this place to visit the family of T. D. Jones and enjoy the lovely climate, beautiful flowers, luscious fruits and scenery of the sweet Sunny South, all of which is a great treat to me, for I am indeed charmed with Florida. En route we stopped at Windsor Hotel, Jacksonville, spent 12 hours in that beautiful city. In the afternoon, with a party of 20 tourists in an auto with a splendid guide, we visited all the points of interest, among which was the ostrich farm where we were entertained with races by the fast running birds and other amusements. We arrived in Tampa March 20 and found our Kentucky relatives and friends contented in their southern home. This is just like June weather in Kentucky and the breeze is fine. Tampa is a fine city, situated on the beautiful Tampa bay. Some of my friends have kindly remembered me with letters from Hazel Green, but I must have THE HERALD too, as I expect to be here for a visit of several weeks, so I shall have to ask you to change my address and send my paper to Tampa, Fla., box 292, in care of Mrs. T. D. Jones. I want last and this week's papers (Cousin Bruce sent me one of week before last) for I always enjoy reading THE HERALD, especially so now as I am so far away from "My Old Kentucky Home." I have patronized THE HERALD ever since the day it came into existence and I have always made it a point to pay in advance and as I think my subscription expires in this month you will find enclosed one dollar for renewal.

With kindest regards for yourself and dear Mrs. Cooper and other friends at Hazel Green, I am respectfully,
MRS. NANNIE M. KASH.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or settling, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. Send for a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

HAZEL GREEN FAIR

To Be Held September 6 to 10, Inclusive.

J. Taylor Day, our enterprising fellow citizen, requests us to announce that he will have a fair this year, beginning Sept. 6 and closing on the 10th. He requests all citizens interested in the improvement of stock and crops to co-operate with him, but says their failure to do so will not deter him pushing the enterprise. The same ground as formerly used for the fair will again be used, but there will be several beneficial changes in the erection of the amphitheater.

Ben Murphy has six or eight new Weber wagons he wants to dispose of at cost. They can be seen at the store of N. C. Day, at Neola, who will give all information in regard to them.

A Rare Opportunity.

I offer for sale my residence, consisting of seven-room cottage, good lot and garden, and outbuildings. One of the most desirable locations in Hazel Green. Also my blacksmith and general repair shop, which is superior to anything of the kind in the country, being furnished with a complete outfit of tools and stock of materials and supplies; also equipped with power and machinery. Will sell all together or separately. For further particulars call on or address,
JOHN H. ROSE,

THE VERY BEST.

Have any of our readers seen a recent copy of the Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer? If not, it will pay to send for a copy, if for no other purpose than to note its present great worth as an educator in all things that tend to make life prosperous, and home, the happiest place on earth.

The editor by asking its readers to criticize and suggest improvements; and following advice thus obtained is enabled to produce a paper that exactly fits needs of a family and a material aid to father, mother and children in reaching that higher level in social life, where content and comfort reign supreme.

Father obtains ample information that guides in the where, when and how to regulate and increase the income from his efforts. The mother in management of household affairs, practical economy, government of children, and other duties that makes her toil a labor of love. Children's minds and hearts are freed from thoughts of questionable amusements and frivolities of life, and encouraged to emulate all that is helpful in planning for a useful future in life.

The Grand Idea being that: "As are our Homes, so will be the Community, State and Nation."

A most desirable help, is a non-sectarian sermon each week, as preached by that Biblical Student Pastor Chas. T. Russell; a forcible reminder of the spiritual and temporal rewards gained by righteous living as preferable to a Godless life that brings nought but misery to the home.

Other departments and features are above the ordinary, the unanimous verdict of its readers being: "The cleanest and best family Weekly known to them."

Sample copies may be had by writing to the ENQUIRER COMPANY, Cincinnati, O.

Arbor day passed off quietly in this section as nearly all the schools had been closed some time since. However, we learn that quite a number of trees were planted.

Miss Virginia Day returned Monday from Cannel City, where she had been visiting her sister, Mrs. W. E. Bach. She was accompanied by Mrs. Bach and little Miss Hallie Day.

We are in receipt of a pamphlet containing the charges of ex-Warden George P. Chinn against the Board of Prison Commissioners and the lessees, Hoge-Montgomery Co., of the state convicts. Mr. Chinn's charges are very strong, and his appeal for an investigation is very emphatic. It now only remains for the general assembly to take up the matter and see that the convicts are more humanely treated.

A Correction.

THE HERALD last week announced that John Neace, who had been attending Hazel Green Academy, would take a 20 weeks' course at Berea, the inference being that he had left this school for Berea. The fact is that Mr. Neace graduated at this school over a year since, and later feeling that he wished to attain more knowledge he matriculated at Berea, more to try the different systems of teaching than anything else. Mr. Neace has every respect for the school here and the way it is conducted, and as the error was ours we hope this will correct any false impression.

Killing in Magoffin.

In a difficulty at Hendricks post-office, in Magoffin county, on the first day of April Millis Arnett shot and killed George Anderson. The particulars, as we learn them, are as follows: George had gone to the postoffice, which was also a store, to purchase a single tree. Sam Arnett was present and made a pass at Anderson, when the latter hit him with the single tree. Instantly Millis Arnett opened fire upon Anderson, shooting him twice in the face and once in the side with a 44 calibre, which resulted in the death of Anderson almost instantly.

Died of Pneumonia.

Sam Neal, a son of Henry Neal, of Neal Valley, and a brother-in-law of Sam Spencer, the well-known oil driller, died at the home of his father on Thursday morning last of pneumonia. He had just made a trip to Farmers with a log raft, caught cold and had to return before he disposed of his raft. Doctors who attended him, however, state that it was his abnormal growth that caused his demise. He was just 17 years of age, and stood 6 feet 3 inches in his stock feet, while his physique in other respects was not proportionate.

Every sufferer from rheumatism will find an effective relief in the use of Thacher's magnetic insoles. The writer has been a sufferer from rheumatism in its various forms for years. Quite recently he secured a pair of the insoles above mentioned and is glad to say they keep the feet from perspiration and relieve pain. In all cases not chronic they will afford relief. The price is $1. Address, Thacher Magnetic Shield Co., 159 Wabash avenue, Chicago.

Aunt Polly James has been quite ill for a few weeks past and for a week has been dangerously so. She is the mother of a large family of children, many of whom live in Illinois. Indeed, she has raised two families, but all are grown men and women who live to themselves. She lives with her son, Clark, and in her present illness has every attention that her devoted children and friends can give her.

An infant child of James Faulkner and wife died Monday morning about six o'clock and was buried at the Holderby graveyard late Monday evening. Mr. Faulkner and wife are profuse in their thanks to James Dyer and wife, who stood by them in all their trouble, attending to burial clothes, coffin, digging the grave, burial, etc. Such neighbors as Mr. Dyer and wife are godsend to any community.

At an expense of considerable time, labor and trouble we have compiled and printed a pamphlet embodying a number of "Helpful Hints to Correspondents." In sending them out we may have missed one or more of our regular correspondents, and should any of these desire a copy, they can get one by calling at THE HERALD office and making their wish known.

Omar, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Salley, died at his home Wednesday, March 31. He was stricken Monday with membranous croup. He was a bright little boy of three years and six months and was the idol of his parents and grandfather, W. M. Clark, since he could lip their names, and had an affectionate smile for all whom he met. While death has thrown a shadow over this home and they are bereaved and broken-hearted in this world, we feel assured he is a shining angel in glory where there will be no more sickness nor death. Weep not for the little one, for of such is the kingdom of heaven.

We love them, yes, we love them. But Jesus loves them more, And so he calls our loved ones To that bright and shining shore. We can not tell who next may fall Beneath the chastening rod, One must be first, then let us all Prepare to meet our God. April 5. SUNSHINE.

Has a New Corn Sheller.

J. Taylor Day has just installed a brand new power corn sheller to his already thoroughly equipped mill and will shell corn for his many customers. He will also continue to give the usual premiums of soda, glassware, etc., and grind at the usual water mill toll.

Someone entered the residence of Hoy Childers, on Lacy creek, Sunday night last while the family was asleep and took a box containing all of his private papers and money. The box was found Monday morning and the papers in a pig pen, but $14 in money, including a specially prized coin, had been taken.

Mrs. Ed French, who before marriage was Miss Mallie James, one time crowned queen of mountain maidenhood, has been dangerously ill in a hospital at Jacksonville, Ill. Her husband, as many of our readers know, is Ed French, who is a prominent minister in the Christian church, and at present located at Ashland, Ill.

By courtesy of State Superintendent J. G. Crabbe we are in receipt of educational bulletins entitled, "Health and Disease," "Whirlwind Campaign, 1908," and "School Buildings and Grounds," issued by the Kentucky Department of Education, all of which contain much interesting matter and information for the friends of education.

We are requested to state that there will be special Easter services at Bethel church, Gosneyville, next Sunday morning at 10:45 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Frank Agar. An extra program of appropriate recitations and special music will be rendered and all are invited to be present.

We are in receipt of a copy of Al-Hada—"The Guidance," a Syrian newspaper published in New York. It is quite an interesting sheet to those who can read it, but we must be excused from commenting on any of the articles as we are more interested in reading papers printed in the English language.

A discontented person is almost as big a bore as one who is self-satisfied.

KENTUCKY KERNELS

Carefully Collected and Concisely Chronicled.

Shelbyville was last week visited by a $10,000 fire.

Five boys were taken from Johnson county to the reform school for stealing chickens.

Cornelius Arnett shot and instantly killed George Anderson, a farmer of Magoffin county, apparently without cause.

In the Maysville Circuit court a number of indictments were returned against various persons for selling tobacco after it had been placed in pool.

While directing some laborers in their work on his farm in Jefferson county, James A. Pritchard, a retired attorney aged 68 years, died of heart failure.

Ira Shubert, while out snipe hunting with his friend, Luke Abbott, in Scott county, was accidentally shot in the foot by the latter and amputation may be necessary.

A mare belonging to J. A. Wagoner, of near Paris, last week foaled a mule colt with seven feet. The hind feet were normal, but one front leg had two distinct feet and the other had three feet. The colt died.

One year in the penitentiary for each chicken stolen and disposed of was the verdict in the Bourbon Circuit court against June Fields, a negro. Fields stole five chickens, ate two and sold three to a dealer.

An unknown man entered the home of Joseph Gernert, in Louisville, and catching hold of Miss Irene Gernert, an 18-year-old daughter, cut off her hair with a razor or knife and made his escape before she could cry out.

What is thought to be the work of incendiaries was the burning of a large stock barn belonging to William Hay, of Hart county. Four valuable horses, a lot of feed and a number of farming implements were also burned.

The corner-stone of the $100,000 addition to the Odd Fellows' Widows and Orphans Home at Lexington will be laid next Thursday, April 15. All Odd Fellows in the state are invited to participate in these impressive exercises.

J. W. Thomas, Jr., the recalcitrant young man who barricaded himself in the Thomas homestead in Shelby county for several days, has agreed to leave the state for all time to come, the family making a money settlement with him.

In a disagreement over a game of craps in a Mt. Sterling "dive," Jim Burnam shot and wounded Lee Butcher, Will Stoner and Hays Hall, and escaped himself unhurt. None were seriously hurt. Burnam was later arrested in Richmond, where he was masquerading as a woman. All were negroes.

United States Marshal Jackson destroyed in Elliott county one of the largest and most complete moonshine stills in the mountains of Kentucky. Andy Brown and Dan Black and wife were arrested and 440 gallons of the product were destroyed.

A request from a New York firm to send them a toast to Kentucky, to be used on a post card, was recently received by State Librarian Frank Kavanaugh. Mr. Kavanaugh says that he would like to have every Kentuckian, whether a resident of the state or not, to send him a toast. The best one will be selected to go on the post card.

A subterranean fire which has been burning in Buttonhole Knob, between South Park and Brooks Station, in Jefferson county, has led to the discovery of coal, sulphur and oil in paying quantities in that section. A fire was started by a forest blaze and it can not be extinguished. Already a hole 12 feet wide at its outlet has been burned into the ground.

In making mention of the move in Mt. Sterling to have an old-time county fair in Montgomery county this fall, the Owensville Outlook truthfully says: "The citizens of Montgomery county met in the court house at Mt. Sterling and committees were appointed to work up an old-fashioned county fair for Montgomery. If the citizens of Mt. Sterling and Montgomery county could ever agree on anything long enough to make a success of it there would be much rejoicing among the angels in heaven. We hope they will get to rejoice this time."

A preacher was called upon recently to tell a dying man that the end was near. He said nothing about repentance or hell; he told the man he was about to go on a long journey and that at its end he would meet all the good friends who had gone before. He must not be afraid, he told him; all would be well. And the man died with a pleasant smile on his face. The incident is an illustration of the great change in sentiment. Two generations ago the preacher would have talked brimstone to the man about to depart.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

Ten Doctors Said He Would Die

"In 1903 we wrote you regarding my husband, who was suffering from heart trouble. He was superannuated by the North Georgian Conference. Ten doctors at different times said he would die. You advised Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Restorative Nervine; we did as advised, and improvement was apparent from the very first. He recovered and the Conference in 1904 gave him a charge. He never felt better, although he has very heavy work and does a great deal of camp meeting work. I am so glad we took your advice and gave him the medicine, and feel that I ought to let you know of the wonderful good results from its use."

MRS. T. S. EDWARDS,
Milner, Ga.

This proves what Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy will do. Get a bottle from your druggist and take it according to directions. It does not matter whether your heart is merely weak, or you have organic trouble, if it does not benefit you take the empty bottle to your druggist and get your money back.

CUSTER'S LAST FIGHT

BY BUFFALO BILL
FROM "TRUE TALES OF THE PLAINS"
COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY WILLIAM F. CODY

ANY series of stories of Indian war would be incomplete without giving an account of the campaign of 1876 against the northern Sioux and their allies from the south, the Sioux and Cheyennes, an affair known as the Custer campaign. The catastrophe that overwhelmed the gallant General Custer and his brave command was an episode that will live forever in Indian history.

In the summer of 1874 General Sheridan sent two expeditions into what was known as the northern country. He sent General Custer with the Seventh cavalry from Fort Abraham Lincoln to scout in the north and northwest of the Black Hills and to return through the Black Hills back to his post. At the same time he sent Colonel Anson Mills from the department of the Platte, leaving the Union Pacific railroad at Rawlins, Wyo., on an expedition to scout the Sweetwater country, the Big Horn basin and Big Horn mountain country and to return by way of the Powder river country back to his department. I was sent to guide Colonel Anson Mills' expedition. The two commands, one under Custer and one under Mills, came within communicating distance in eastern Wyoming, on the Powder river, the two commanding officers and scouts meeting and holding a consultation. This country was then comparatively unknown, except to the scouts, hunters and trappers.

Mills marched from Rawlins to Independence Rock, on the Sweetwater river, where he made a supply camp and left his wagons. General Custer continued on through the Black Hills, exploring it in every hole and corner, and then returned to Fort Abraham Lincoln. This meeting of the two commands was the last time I ever saw the general. It was on Custer's expedition through the Black Hills that the old timers' assertions of its wealth in gold were confirmed and practically demonstrated. Therefore, although the government's intention was to keep out invaders of this section (many of the first being arrested by the military), the efforts were a failure, for the rush became so great as to render it impracticable to arrest it. This brought about irritation on the part of the Indians. During '75, and '76 the whole Dakota nation, the most powerful Indians and their allies, listened to the harangues of Sitting Bull and other medicine men to prepare to go on the warpath, to gather their best horses and secure all the ammunition and long range rifles they could.

General Sheridan, in view of the situation and the gathering of warriors in the northwest, commenced massing the United States troops in sones closely connected with the powers existing. The investigation coming on, Custer was ordered to Washington to give testimony. This testimony adhered so strictly to the truth that it brought him into disfavor, and when he returned to his post he found that the command of the main expedition was taken from him and that he was assigned to his own regiment simply, while General Terry was ordered to take supreme command. To a soldier with his record, to a man of his sensitiveness, this humiliation was deeply felt, and, no doubt, was one of the many causes that warped his judgment at a time when it was most needed. General Terry showed his sympathy and confidence in him after the Indian trail was discovered, when he ordered him to take his regiment, with ten days' rations, ammunition and private scouts, along with Charlie Reynolds, Bloody Knife and others, and take the trail and follow it. He struck the trail and followed it at a rapid pace on the 23d and 24th of July. At this point the trail left the Rosebud and headed toward the Little Big Horn. As the march had been very rapid, the horses were tired and camp was made, while preparations to start by 2 o'clock in the morning to cross the divide which separated the two streams was determined on.

At 2 o'clock the regiment was again on the move, with the scouts ahead, and by daylight they had crossed the ridge. The command was keeping in the ravine or canyons out of sight and moving as quietly as possible. The scouts in advance came back and reported to General Custer that they had seen tepees, or Indian lodges, which was true; but, as it afterward turned out, the tepees which the scouts had seen were three or four tepees that had been put up for smallpox patients away from the main Indian village.

General Custer divided his command into three parts, taking five companies himself, Major Reno with five companies and Colonel Benteen with two companies, to bring up the rear with the pack train. Major Reno was ordered to march straight on to the Little Big Horn, while Custer would move obliquely off to the right, making a detour of some seven or eight miles and striking the Little Big Horn at what he supposed would be the lower end of the Indian village, while Reno was to strike it from the upper end. Custer was to work up the river and Reno down, while Reno was to keep on coming down the river until he joined with Custer, and Benteen was to follow up with the pack train.

As near as we know, Reno struck the Indians a little before Custer did, and, of course, he, as well as Custer, was surprised at the immense size of the village. There were ten times more Indians in this village than was indicated by the Indian trail which they had been following up the Rosebud. It is a fact that the Indians whom they were following had just at this point and at this time joined the main band of Indians in camp on the Little Big Horn. The principal chiefs among the Indians, of course, were Sitting Bull, Gall, Crazy Horse, Rain-in-the-Face, Little Big Man, Grass and many others.

At first the Indians were taken completely by surprise, for they were so numerous that they had failed to keep scouts out at the usual distance, and Reno's attack was the first that they saw of the soldiers. Reno, instead of charging, held back when he saw the immense numbers in front—his heart, indeed, failed him, and, abandoning audacity, which is the true motto of the cavalryman, though he failed to recognize it at this time, he dismounted to fight on foot. In his first charge he was repulsed, and, as near as I have been able to learn, it was only a weak one, not on account of his officers or men, but it was the lack of faith and confidence in himself that took away the vim and dash that the charge should have had.

Reno, in looking over the situation, preferred defense in preference to attack. He recrossed the Little Big Horn and took up a position on a hill, where he dilly dallied around until the Indians, taking courage at his apparent weakness, made the fight on him all the fiercer. Most of the men that he lost were lost while crossing the Little Big Horn in retreat, so as to get into the bluffs on the east side.

Major Reno, although having a good civil war record, through his indecision in the emergency on this occasion seemed to have completely lost soldierly intelligence. The Indians, as was afterward learned, were completely taken by surprise, and the great war chief, Gall, personally directed the attack on Reno and was making preparations to surround him on the hill, evidently unaware of Custer's proximity on the other side of the village. This shows what could have been done had Reno charged onward and kept this greatest of the war chiefs occupied instead of thus permitting him to leave a few men to threaten Reno, while he concentrated his warriors on the other side of the village against Custer. A messenger to Benteen from Custer, ordering him to "come on quick and bring the packs," had caused that gallant officer to hasten, but, overtaking Reno, who outranked him, he was ordered to join his demoralized forces and was compelled to obey. The latter thought that the two commands combined, which numbered 400 men, would soon take measures to get into action. But the appeals of such officers as Benteen, Weir, French and others to lead on were without avail.

The last seen of Custer as he started into the ever to be remembered battle of the Little Big Horn was when he went over the ridge and waved his hat in salute to the other commands. Custer, making a wide detour to fall on the rear of the village, or what he thought was the rear, immediately struck a very strong band of Indians led by Chief Gall.

They had crossed the river at a point where they were concealed by a large ravine and got on Custer's flank, and so astute had been Chief Gall's arrangements that he found himself attacked in front and on all sides. Custer's first charge was successful until he saw the immensity of the village. He saw that it was a city instead of a village. There being a high hill a half mile back from the Little Big Horn, Custer decided to take this as a standpoint. He sounded the recall and tried to make this hill. He had to turn his back while doing so. The Indians are never so brave as when they get one's back to them. On their retreat to the hill half of his men were killed. The rest took up positions, but the Indians, being so elated at killing so many of his men from the Little Big Horn up to the hill and the failure of Reno to attract the Indians continually coming down the Little Big Horn, almost all the fighting Indians concentrated on Custer and fought him to death.

Fighting desperately to gain a point higher up, no doubt, he was, however, compelled to dismount his men and act on the defensive. Unable to advance or retreat and probably unwilling to do so, he must have based his actions on the diversion that the other commands would make. Steadfastly believing this from later Indian accounts, they fought coolly, hoping and expecting for re-enforcements which never came, but succeeded in keeping up the fight for some time. The Indians, well armed and in overwhelming numbers, circling and riding at speed, kept up a continuous and effective fire, while skirmishers and marksmen crawled through the grass, picking off officers. In the meanwhile Reno was still lying on the hill, although they could hear the reports of firearms below, and notwithstanding that Benteen, Weir, French and others continued their appeals and that the echoing volleys cried for assistance he remained there until all was silent, the Indians eventually killing Custer and every one of his gallant band. Reno was kept annoyed by the savages until the arrival of General Terry and Gibbon's command, while on the second day the Indians set fire to the grasses to cover their movements with smoke and drew off. Afterward a visit to the battle scene told the story of Custer's last battle, showing that every one had at least done his duty and, though defeated, was not disgraced. They all died in the proper military formation, every officer at his post and every man in line. Custer's body was found, and, although all the others were mutilated or scalped, his body seemed to have been untouched except by his death wounds, this being a tribute from the savage foe to his courage and gallantry. His brother, Captain Tom, and his brother-in-law, Captain Calhoun, with a nephew, were among the slain, making an unusual family affliction. The bodies of all the officers were found, with the exception of Dr. Lord, Lieutenants Porter, Harrington and Sturges and some ten men. The latter's fate has never been known—whether they were captured and tortured or whether their bodies had been thrown into the quicksands near the bed of the Little Big Horn. It is not clear, the only certainty being that they were dead. Two hundred and twelve bodies were buried on the hill, the losses to the regiment being in two days 265 killed and 52 wounded, 50 per cent of the command!
